The chair announced his signature to the tariff commission bill.

The bill for intermediate appellate courts was further discussed, Mr. George resuming and concluding his criticisms upon the measure. Mr. Jones, of Florida, offered an amendment affecting appeals from district to circuit courts, but this and severel amendments offered by Mr. George and Mr. Morgan were lost by nearly the same vote, the democrats voting aye, and the republicans, with Mr. Davis, of Illinois, in the negative. An amendment was adopted, on motion of Mr. Davis, of Illinois, providing more especially chat the jurisdiction of our circuit court shak be neither enlarged nor abridged by the ball. It is generally agreed that Mr. Blount has proven hisself the livest man of the house committee on foreign relations. At the opening proceedings Mr. Reed desired to call attention to one authorithen, for the first time, he lost his temper. Blount was the only man who made anything out of Shipherd. From your full telegraphic accounts you have seen how he used up Senator Blair, a sleek witness and an artful dodger. Blair was handled by Blount three days most successfully. He put on very grand airs when he first appeared before the committee. He evaded, time and again, the penetrating inquiries of his merciless examiner, but he went out at last in a poor plight. He was very indignant Saturday when Mr. Blount asked him how much of Shipherd's stock he was promised and flatly refused to answer. This morning he saw what an attitude he had placed himself in and owned up to having one fundred thousand dollars of the Peruvian scrip. This scrip he kept until Calderon was arrested and the bubble burst. ty on the point that it is the duty of the court to sustain technicalities when they appear in law.

GRIFFIN, May 11.—The dry goods war between the merchants and the two representatives of one of the livest firms in Atlanta, is still progressing, and from the present outlook the adventurers in the new departure seem to have the longest pole. The city court de-cided that the two itinerants came under the cided that the two itinerants came under the head of ordinary peddlers of merchandise, and by authority of the city code would only impose a fine of ten dollars and costs upon each, which was responded to in the shape of an appeal, upon the ground that they had already secured a license from the city clerk to do business in the city, and were not responsible for the errors committed by any of the city officials. Not to be outdone, or wishing to outride the law in the least, the young men have rented a store room, and will open up a regular branch house here in first-class style. This, perhaps, is as it should be, and it also shows up the pluck and energy of the Atlanta firm.

GREENVILLE, May 11 .- At the meeting Tues day night, conducted by Pastor Strickland, talks, earnest and tender, were made by Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Richmond college, former pastor of the church; Rev. Dr. Manly, of the Southern Baptist theological seminary; Rev. Mr. Dixon, of North Carolina; and Rev. Dr. J. W. M. Williams, of Baltimore. Two persons were received for baptism. The meeting was a very tender one throughout, and was an earnest of a fine spirit for the deliberative sessions to follow.

The convention sermon was preached at this evening's session by Rev. T. T. Eaton, D.D., of Walnut Street church, Louisville, Ky. He took for his text, Rev. III, 15. "I would thou wert cold or hot." The preacher introduced his subject by showing that the state of things under the early Roman emperors when the text was given was very similar to what we find in the thought of to-day. He then drew a view of the way men now have of boasting of the progress and superiority of this age, and he snowed that much of the so-called improvement of this age was more in the nature of destruction.

New Haven, May 11 .- In the trial to-day the two Malleys sat opposite Miss Douglass. Walter sat with crossed legs, and taking notes on a quire of foolscap. At one time he amused himself by copying from memory one of the notes he wrote to Jennie Cramer over Miss Douglass' signature. Anon he made sketches of persons in the court room, and passed them to James. Miss Douglass was repeatedly identified by witnesses who were positive that they saw her with Miss Cramer after her final departure from her brother's house. She eemed undisturbed by these identifications. She resolutely faced the mother and Mrs Milles, who were the first to identify her, but her glances were wandering over the court room when she was pointed out to-day. He told Dr. Abbey to call in Dr. Green, and if they decided that it would be beneficial to the house to sell the books, it was between them. The trade was made. When Dr. Redford was selected agent he restored the sale of school books. McFerrin & Hunter claimed they had been damaged and about $400 or $500 was paid them, Dr. Redford making a similar transaction with the same firm. AN ATTEMPT TO COTER UP.

Walter Malley came in the restaurant and said that he had seen a report in an evening paper that I said that I had seen him in the restaurant with two ladies on the evening of August 4th. I replied that I was not responsible for what appeared in the papers, but I was certain that I saw him with the ladies on that Thursday evening. He assured me that I was mistaken—that only one lady and his cousin James were with him. He said he would come in later with his cousin and see whether he could not remember him. He insisted that I must be mistaken, acknowledging that he might have been there with Miss Douglass, but asserting that there was no other lady. On the same evening he and his cousin James came in. Walter again asserted that his cousin was with him. I said that it might be that James had come and gone out without my seeing him, but I was sure that there was another lady with Miss Douglass. Then they called the colored waiter, John Henry. James held out his hand, and said: 'Don't you remember that I was here on Thursday evening, and that I put my hat down in a certain position. and water, what and said: Don't you remember that I was here on Thursday evening, and that I put my hat down in a certain position, and that you kicked against it. The waiter replied: 'I can't remember the circumstance to which you allude.' James and Walter both vainly tried to recall his memory. 'Don't you remember that I put my hat down so and so?' James would say, illustrating. 'No,' the waiter would reply; 'so many gentlemen put their hats down that way that I can't remember.' Mr. Fox (of Malley's counsel) came in while they were there, and Walter turned to him, saying: 'He says I was here with two ladies.' Mr. Fox's reply was: 'Well, if you were here you couldn't be elsewhere.'

John Henry, a colored waiter at the restaurant, testified that he saw Jenny Cramer and Blanch Douglass at the restaurant Thursday morning, August 7, and the same ladies came there at 10:40 the same evening and left about 11:15

The town, however, is still enjoying her usual quota of spring trade Our merchants seem to be pushing ahead, and upon the whole, I should judge the peo ple of Griffin are keeping pace with her sis ter towns and villages in every particular.

Those most directly interested in the future development and prosperity of our town are still hanging on to the boom raised here a little while back in regard to the building of a branch road from Griffin to Jackson or Lo-cust Grove, where it will intersect the Macon and Brunswick extension to Atlanta. It is idle talk to say that the building of this little road would not do more to benefit us in every way than anything else that could be done. Of course in every community there are "croakers" enough to alarm the natives, and if their set still ideas could be carried into effect it might drown the interest of thousands of enterprises. It is not so bad here. While there perhaps are some who are satisfied with Griffin as it is, almost her entire population are on the qui vive and ready to put their shoulders to the wheel when the signal is given. THE CROP PROSPECT.

Quite a seasonable shower of rain poured in upon us yesterday. I understand it was general throughout this immediate section, which will doubtless prove a benefit and a blessing, as now is the time when we need occasional sprinklings to make the field truck grow. The sprinklings to make the field truck grow. The crop prospect still sustains itself—if anything, it is decidedly more flattering than when I last made mention of it. The farmers have their lands in good condition, and the young crop that is springing up bids fair to be one of the best and most successfully managed one for many years past. I was talking to a gentleman the other day who seemed to think that some of our farmers give themselves away by being a little too apprehensive of general damage when he sometimes finds a little something about in small places as rust, lice or worms. You will most always find an occasional stalk of rust or one that contains bugs or something of rust or one that contains bugs or somethin of the kind, but then it's not general and doesn't amount to anything in the way of damage. Well, the first thing he does is to doesn't amount to anything in the way of damage. Well, the first thing he does is to "earry the news" probably first, as likely as otherwise, to some newspaper man. The bad effect may be readily seen in the fact that reports are heralded north, east and west, and tend to keep the price of provisions high on the prospect of a short crop. The point may or may not be well taken, but I submit it for what its worth. Maybe some thinking farmer will hang on to it.

WHOSE BULLET?

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION IN THE ROUNTREE CASE

in the Pistols Leads to a t Ball, and the Ball Found Indicates That the Victim's Brother Fired the Fatal Shot-

A reporter of the Banner-Watchman yes erday had an interview with Solicitor-General Mitchell touching the death of Walter Rountree, mention of which was made in the columns of this journal yesterday morning, and the report that said shot was fired by Bartow Rountree, and in substance gave the following account of the affair: THE DIFFERENCE IN THE BALLS.

"At the time this difficulty occurred I was bsent at Banks court. The coroner's jury ascertained that the caliber of pistols use was the same, and the ball was not obtained, supposing that it would not aid in determining who fired the fatal shot. After reaching nome and beginning investigation of the case, it was found that while the caliber was the ame, there was a decided difference in the same, there was a decided difference in the two balls, the one used by Frank Johnson was a rim-fire cartridge, and that used by Bartow Rountree was a center-fire cartridge. The difference in the balls is, the rim-fire cartridge has three rings around it and the base of the ball is solid; whereas, the certer-fire has a concave ball with one ring around the ball, so you see it was a very easy matter to tell who fired the fatal shot. During the investigation of the case I ascertained that the line of defense would be that Frank Johnson did not fire the fatal shot. and as I knew son did not fire the fatal shot, and as I knew that the difference in the balls would give a and the difference in the balls would give a quietus to this question if produced in court, I consulted with my assistant counsel, Colonel Pope Barrow, and he agreed with me that it was the duty of state's counsel to produce the ball. To this end, with the sanction of Ordinary Jackson, Drs. Benedict and Campbell were furnished with letters to Mr. Daniel Rountree, brother of the deceased, and sent to Onitmen last Wadnesday, for the process of Quitman last Wednesday for the purpose of making a post mortem examination and find-ing the ball.

"THE BALL FOUND.

"The examination was made Friday night by consent of the family. The ball was found lodged in the spinal column, with spinal cord compietely severed, and was evidently fired by a center-fire, 32 caliber pistol. Since the return of the gentlemen with the ball thorough experiments, have been made. return of the gentlemen with the ball thorough experiments have been made. A cartridge containing a ball, exactly like the one producing the death of Mr. Rountree, was tried on the pistol used by Frank Johnson and would not enter the cylinder, the shell being somewhat larger than the rim-fire shell. In the pistol used by Frank Johnson were three cartridges, which had been snapped, but not fired. One of these cartridges was taken from the pistol, the ball taken out, and it proved to be solid base as the rim-fire before described, and altogether unlike the ball described, and altogether unlike the ball taken from Johnson's pistol. The one pro-duced by the dectors were weighed on drug-gist's scales by Dr. Benedict, and a difference of about ten grains in weight was found.

WHAT THE EVIDENCE DEMONSTRATES.

"Taking all these facts into consideration, together with some additional evidence obtained within the last few days, that a rimfire pistol will not explode a center-fire car-tridge, and vice versa, and other facts ascer-tained regarding the rencountre itself, that while Johnson and Echols were the originators of the difficulty and the cause of Mr. Roun-tree's death, the evidence demonstrates that the fatal shot could not have been fired by Frank Johnson, and therefore he cannot, un der the law, be guilty of murder, but both of the defendants, in my judgment, are clearly guilty of an assault with intent to murder, and an indictment for that offense was returned by the grand jury yesterday. The case

The above statement of Solicitor-General Mitchell, will, no doubt, be read with interest by all lovers of law and justice, and we will only add that the only object had in view by the solicitor, his associate counsel, and the friends of the prosecution was to ascertain the whole truth in the matter. So-licitor-General Mitchell also stated, that if he had been in the city at the time, he would have produced the ball before the coroner's jury.

Counsel for the colored prisoners, Frank Johnson and Enoch Echols, applied to the court to bail their clients, as the true bill for murder was quashed, and they were only indicted for ar assault with intent to murder. An Attack Upon a Woman.

From the Gwinnett Herald.

The quietness of a community about two miles below Stone Mountain has been no little disturbed of late by a series of outrages committed by one Seab R. Brown, a notorious character, upon a widow woman, Mrs. Sarah Garmley. Some few weeks ago Brown went to the residence of Mrs. Gamley enraged about some little difference that had arisen between her and his wife, whereupon he assaulted her, knocked her down, inflicted some wounds upon her person with a knife and even, as I learn, attempted to cut her throat. Brown was put under arrest, but by some mysterious means the matter was compromised. The other evening Brown's wife met her in the road, no words particular were passed, and she stabbed her in the side with a knife which she had concealed about her person. Mrs. Gam ley immediately had Mrs. Brown put under arrest, Brown again became enraged, threat-ened Mrs. Gamley's life, and as she lived near Brown, many persons advised her for her own personal safety and that of her fatherless children to leave to leave home and go to some neighbors. She did so. Last night about 8 o'clock p.m., her house was fired, and it and all the contents, including provisions, clothing, etc., was consumed. A widow woman and fatherless children are now homeless, without anything, turned out upon the world. Great indignation is manifested everywhere.

At Cass station on Sunday 7th instant, Mr.

L. C. M. (Chap) Quillian was married to Miss Kate McKelvey, Dr. W. H. Felton officiating. From the Berrien County News. We are informed by Elder Charles Robe that Mr. Henry Jewell, age 96, and Miss Chaney, age 16, both of Coffee county, were united in matrimony a few days since. We fear their earthly treasure will not be made up of jewels.

From the Griffin News.

The engagement of Mr. Julius Mack, of this city, to Miss Rebecca Isaaes, of Macon, is announced. Mr. Mack is one of our enterprising young merchants, and is popular in Griffin society. Miss Isaacs, we learn, is one of Macon's most accomplished ladies, and her coming to Griffin will be an accession to the society. The marriage will be sometime in the early autumn.

A Baby Elephant.

rom the Montezuma Weekly. We have been to the home of a colored mother on one of our back streets and found a remarkable monstrosity in a week old babe. It is partly enveloped in an elephant's skin, and could not be told from the hide of this animal unless seen on the child. It has a thick, rough, scaly exterior, covered with just enough long hair to easily discern it. The child has a long, pendant ear on that side of the head covered by this skin. we view it as a fac simile of the ear of a baby elephant. This skin protrudes a quarter of an inch above the natural skin of the child. Its cries are low and plaintive like an animal, not a human being. The mother remarkable monstrosity in a week old babe. an animal, not a human being. The mother states that she attended a circus last fall, was frightened by the elephants and regards this as the cause of the child's strange deformity. This child, or animal as it may turn out t be, is large and healthy and seems likely to live. What a curiosity it would be if it should live. One of our citizens has offered the mother a thousand dollars for it. It is daily

Willingham on Woman,

From the Cartersville Free Press. God, in all of his creation made woman the sweetest and loveliest, the truest and best of His handiwork. God made the flowers of earth for the purpose of giving to woman the expression of her pure heart, as the incense of her loveliness and humanity. It was woman who made decoration day in Georgia. It is to woman we owe its perpetual observance of that day. It is to the sweetness of woman's nature that the southern heart is brought once a year to contemplate the love we owe to our confederate dead. It is the hand of a woman that the garlands of the sweetest or a woman that the garlands of the sweetest memories are strewn upon honored and un-known graves. It is so natural and lovely that women should be the first at our birth and the last at our bier. It is she that im-presses the last kiss as well as the first. It is woman's sweet voice that first lullabies man to sleep in his most helpless infancy. It is woman that guides him to manhood and pre-serves him in his moral integrity. To man woman is everything—she is all to him.

Wheat is now beginning to head out in this neighborhood, While the leaves are hardly out in Michigan, the peaches here are as large as agate marbles. Georgia's March is our May—our June her April. One-half the work done on our timbered lands to get a crop would produce a yield in the valleys here to astonish the farmer. Every railroad town is a cash market, and new railroads are being projected and pushed in all directions.

The Georgia negro differs from his brother in Tennessee. He wears poorer clothes, does less work and knows less. If he isn't too sick to walk he spends his days in town. He who charges the south with indolence should see what has been accomplished since 1865. Every town from Chattanooga to Atlanta was laid in ashes. Not a hundred fruit trees were left between the two points. Not a rail was left on any farm—hardly a farm house or barn. Thousands of people were left without food, or clothing, or money, or tools. It was a barren, ravaged scene of desolation, and men said it could not recover in fifty years. But behold the change! THE CONSTITUTION,

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 12, 1882.

THE signal service bureau report indicates for Georgia to-day, partly cloudy weather. with rains, southwesterly winds, becoming variable, stationary or lower temperature, fall ing followed by rising barometer.

A ROUND the coffin at Chatsworth yesterday, the sympathy of the whole world was centered, and from no people came more sincere sorrow than from the people of Ireland.

Mahone's peculiar legislation is now on its way for review before the United States supreme court. The bill known as the coupon killer goes up on a writ of error from the Virginia court of last resort.

GENERAL WHEELER, of Alabama, is the next democratic congressman who will have to go. The republicans want a working majority, and they will hesitate at nothing that stands in the way of their getting it.

ARIZONA is indignant. The president has thought proper to enforce the law, and to some prominent frontiersmen nothing worse could happen. The usual resolutions have been adopted and forwarded to Washington.

Suicide always develops something sensational. The case reported yesterday from Nashville showed the desperation of a girl for her callous lover, while that of an Atlanta man reported from Louisville exhibits man's infatuation for woman

THE house committee on education and labor has, through its chairman, introduced a bill granting an appropriation of $1,000,000 a year for five years, for the promotion of education, to be distributed on the basis of illiteracy The day of the schoolmaster has evidently come.

THE coils are slowly but surely fastening around the New Haven miscreants who outraged and murdered their poor victim. The evidence has now traced culprits and victim almost up to the final moment, and it is altogether likely that this link will be supplied by one of the principals, the wayward

MR. BLOUNT, in the composition of the committees by the new speaker, was ousted from a field of labor in which he had won merited distinction. In his new field, however, his versatility as a statesman has been tested, and he is to-day a more prominent figure than ever before. His cross examination of the oily Shipherd has attracted general comment.

THIS is the day of religious conventions. The Protestant Episcopal church has diocesan convocations in session at Athens, Georgia; Spartanburg, South Carolina, and are discussing matters at Greenville, South Carolina: the Southern Methodists are getting fairly to work at Nashville, and the Presbyterians will, on the 18th, assemble at Columbus, Georgia.

AFTER reading the latest developments in Banner, the whole people of Georgia, and of Athens particularly, will be gratified to recollect that in a perilous moment judicious counsels prevailed, and that what would have been a public disgrace was averted. Lynch law is never justifiable because it is always liable to be unjust, while the law of the land, if properly sustained by public sentiment, will always prove equal to every emergency.

SHUTTING THEIR GATES.

We accept without discussion the policy of the three or four towns that have quarantined against Atlanta. It seems a little hard that outside towns should shut their gates against a city, however, from which not one man, woman or child has been sent for safety. If there was the slightest danger of an epidemic of small-pox the fathers and husbands of Atlanta-some of them at least-would send their families out of the city. Not one has done so, for the simple reason that there is not the slightest danger to the bulk of our population. The small-pox is confined to a est of vagrant negroes and a scattering white here and there, and there is no possibility of its spreading.

These towns, however, that have quarantined against Atlanta, because of a few scattering cases of negroes who have the smallpox, may prepare to keep them shut for a long time. They might as well quarantine against New York, which has had 806 cases in thre months, or against Cincinnati that has had more deaths from small-pox in one week than Atlanta has had in ten years. Rome and Gainesville, after full discussion of the matter, declined to quarantine, and we predict they incur no danger from the refusal. Whatever may be done, however, the gates of Atlanta will be open to any citizen of Georgia, whenever he wants to come to see us. In the meantime there is not the slightest excitement in the city. Our schools, revivals picnics, parties and social gatherings are undisturbed, and the man who thought of letting the small-pox stand in the way of even a day's enjoyment, would be laughed at for colored man, who signs himself R. H. Carter, sends us a letter in which he reviews the attitude of THE CONSTITUTIOL toward the negroes as citizens and as a race. He says ere was a period when this journal deemed of value and importance. ed desirous of treating the negroes fairly, to allow our prejudices to get the better of us. The change, if there has been any, is probably in our correspondent. Certainly there has been none on the part of THE CONstitution. The law knows no color, and we believe that law-breakers should be punished whether they are white or black. A white man who murders a negro ought to be hanged, and a negro who murders a white man ought to be hanged. When two white boys follow up two negro boys with the avowed purpose of having a row and the killing of one of the negroes is the result, THE CONSTITUTION will denounce the affair just as it denounced the killing of Rountree.

Instead of complaining at the impartiality of THE CONSTITUTION, which proposes to befriend the race and at the same time tell them the truth, the negroes should meet together and denounce the incendiary language of a paper which, as matters stand, may be supposed to be their organ. When the news of the killing of Rountree reached Atlanta, and when everybody supposed that he had been murdered by Johnston, the Defiance applauded the act and congratulated Johnson on his bravery.

One of the mysteries of the situation is that the thoughtful intelligent representatives of the race do not aid in the efforts which have been made to allay the prejudices that may exist on the part of both races. Another mystery is that they should allow themselves to be represented by a person who declares that bravery on the part of a negro consists in killing a white man. That such a sentiment can be uttered in a negro paper without protest from the real representatives of the race is a bad sign-a very bad sign.

THE CONSTITUTION AND THE SMALL POX We had hoped it would not be necessary for THE CONSTITUTION to reiterate the statement that we had printed the whole truth as to the small-pox in this city. Since doubt continues to be thrown on our assertion and the most absurd rumors are put affoat as to the condition of things here, we epeat what we have already said, that THE ONSTITUTION has from first to last published the name of every person, white or black, who has had the small-pox or anything like it in this city. We have not omitted one single name, suppressed one single circumstance or withheld one element of the truth. And to the truth of this assertion the managers of THE CONSTITUTION pledge their honor as men and journalists. Dr. Baird, of the board of health, who has been in charge of the records, certifies to the same thing; so does Dr. Martin, chief inspector, whose watchfulness has been constant.

In the fullest terms we defy any person, a home of abroad, to produce even reasonable suggestion of a case that has not been reported in our columns. If anyone will give us a clue to any case that we have not reported. we will publish what they write, follow out their clue, and give the result of our search in these columns. The fact is there has not been a single supposed case, nor incident In accordance with our oft-declared idea of the duty of a public journal, we have printed the whole truth from the first case to the last, and the man who asserts differently utters a falsehood, either through ignorance or malice.

Now, let us compare the truth with the absurd rumors of 400 cases in all and 100 cases in one day, and so on. There have been up to this writing, less than sixty cases of small-pox or varioloid in Atlanta, during the two months over which the record is spread. There have been less then a half dozen white cases, and these were persons who refused to be vaccinated. There are now thirteen physicians under pay of the city devoting their whole time to free vaccination, and go ing from house to house. Under these circumstances there has been no temptation to suppress the truth. The real situation was so much better than the rumors, and so little of real danger in it, that we need nothing but to get the truth before the public. There is no alarm in the city-of the 50,000 inhabithe Rountree case, as detailed by the Athens tants not one man, woman or child has left the city for safety, and none think of leaving. In other words, there's more excitement out side of Atlanta than in it, by a hundred times

A NEW DEPARTMENT. The house has passed with only seven dissenting votes the bill to change the argicultural bureau that Dr. Loring has charge of into an executive department. The course of the debate and the votes in the house show that this is one of those bills that everybody who has political ambition prefers to support; and there are, therefore, no grounds for expecting its rejection in the senate.

We have the bill before us. It provides that the new secretary shall organize four bureaus, namely: First. The bureau of agricultural products which shall include divisions of botany, entomology and chemistry, and the chief of which bureau, who shall be a practical agriculturist, shall investigate the modes of farming in the several states and territories, and shall report such practical information as shall tend to increase the profits of the farmer respecting the various methods; the crops most profitable in the several sections; the preferable varieties of seeds, vines, plants and fruits; ertilizers; implements; buildings, and similar matters. Second. The bureau of animal industry, to be in charge of a competent veterinary surgeon, who shall investigate and report upon the number, value and condition of the domestic animals of the United States: their protection, growth and use; the causes, prevention or cure of contagious, communicable or other diseases; and the kinds, races or breeds best adapted to the several sections for profitable raising.

Third. The bureau of lands, the chief o which shall investigate and report upon the resources or capabilities of the public or other lands for farming, stock raising, timber, manufacturing, mining, or other industrial uses. And all powers and duties vested in the commission now known as the geological survey, together with all clerks, employes, and agents, and all instruments, records, books, papers, and so forth, are to be transferred to the department of agriculture. And the secretary may, through this bureau, institute such investigations and collect such information, facts, and statistics relative to the mines and mining of the United States as may be

Fourth. The bureau of statistics, the chie but he fears, in view of our comments on the of which shall collect and report the agriculing surgeon, who, with one slash of his glittering Rountree killing at Athens, that we are about tural statistics of the United States; and, in knife, will free the worthy politician from all dan-addition, all important information or statistics relating to industrial education and agricultural colleges; to labor and wages in this and other countries; to markets and prices; to modes and cost of transporting agricultural products and live stock to their market: to the demand, supply and prices in foreign markets; to the location, number and products of manufacturing establishments of whatever sort, the sources of raw material, methods, markets and prices; to such commercial or other conditions as may affect the market value of farm products or the interests of the industrial classes of the United States. And the secretary is authorized to establish such divisions in this bureau, and to make such monthly or other reports, as he shall deem most effective for the prompt dissemination of such reliable information respecting crops and domestic and foreign markets as will be of service to the farmers or other industrialists of the United

The bill was reported and pushed through y Representative Anderson of Kansas, who by the way is not a practical farmer. He was, however, for six years president of the Kansas agricultural college, and has carefully studied agricultural matters. Most of the speeches in favor of the bill were delivered by awvers; but this fact serves to show that the bill will encounter very little opposition in the senate, and that Mr. Arthur will soon be called upon to nominate an additional cabinet

NAST AND THE GREELEYS. An exchange, alluding to the recent death of Mrs. Ida Greeley Smith, the eldest daugh: ter of Horace Greeley, after paying a high tribute to her physical and mental endowments-to her domestic accomplishments, as well as to her social culture-says that the caricatures aimed at her father by a partisan press wounded her sorely. This, of course, s an allusion to the work of Thomas Nast who has for years been employed at a high salary to slander honest people. The merit of these pictorial slanders lay, not in the art with which they were presented, for their art s that of a tyro, but in a certain elemental and ingrained coarseness defying reason and refinement and trenching largely upon the domain of vulgarity blackguardism. In some of his cartoons

Nast, with the egotism that always lurks be hind such typical coarseness, has presented his own portrait, and it is not a pleasant affair to look upon or to remember. But the portrait of his mental condition is even worse. With no knowledge and therefore no appreciation of the large latitude and liberty f thought underlying everything Americana latitude and liberty that have their nucleus in a nationality that depends upon the cooperation of individuals and communities and not upon the will of a sovereign-it is impossible that Mr. Nast understand the people or the institutions among which he has sought his fortune. Doubtless he could illustrate sympathetically the political condition of Bavaria or some other German municipality where patriotism drowns itself in the dregs of beer, but America is too large and too free for his compre hension. There is no room in our politics, or in our caricature, or in any department of our growth for the development of what is sinis ter, and it so happens that the fate of Nast as a caricaturist is not greatly different from that of Conkling as a politician. Both betray an astounding lack of sensibility in dealing their fellow-men, and the motives of both have a sinister basis. Thus Mr. Conkling is scorned by a genial public, and Nast is gradually disappearing from the pages that once reeked with his hired wrath.

Horace Greeley was one of the most engaging figures of a period of storm and gloom. He was honest, earnest and incorruptible, a lover of his fellow-man-an American-and is not necessary for any friend of his family to announce that the coarse and indecent attacks of Nast should have sunk deep in the hearts of his devoted daughters, Ida and Gabrielle; indeed, it is to be regretted that the avowal should have been made, for if it should meet the eye of Nast, he will no doubt regard it as merely another tribute to the vulgar impulse which he calls his art. What does it matter to such as he that a generous or a tender heart has been made to bleed by his coarseness, so long as he receives the applause of the beer saloons? We may depend upon time, however, to set all things even. SOME ANIMAL STATISTICS

With all his faults of style and temper,

According to some tables read in the house of representatives last week Georgia had on the first day of last January 275,800 milch cows, worth $14.56 a head, or having a total value of $4,015,648. The cheapest cows are found in Florida, where the average price is $12.29. The cows of New Jersey are worth $35.50 a head, and those of Ohio $31.37. New York has more cows than any other state. Iowa being second, Pennsylvania third, Illinois fourth, and Ohio fifth. New York has 1,474,700 cows that are valued at $31.43 apiece, or $46,349,821. The entire country owns 12,-

Of oxen and other cattle Georgia had at the beginning of the year 408,800 head, valued at $8.59 each, or $3.511.592. Florida and Mississippi are the only states that have lower-priced oxen than Georgia. Texas leads all the states in the number of cattle other than milch cows. She has 3,990,800, at an average price of $12.54, making a grand total of $50,044,632. The only other states that pos sess more than a million head are Missouri, Iowa and Illinois. The number in the coun try is 20,626,140.

Georgia had on the first day of the year 1,650,000 hogs, worth three dollars apiece. Illinois, Iowa and Missouri are the great hog states. The other states that have more than a million are North Carolina Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana Kansas and Nebraska. The average value of hogs ranges from $2.50 in Florida to $13.72 in New Hampshire and $15.50 in Massachusetts. There are nearly 34,000,000 hogs with bristles

COLONEL MARCELLUS THORNTON has issued a para raph to the effect that the June convention of syn dicates and coalition is to be held small-pox or no small-pox. Such languid valor shows that Colone Farrow and Colonel Thornton mean business.

WE endeavored to say the other day that one or congress would be the means of generating a boom for 1884. Our compositors held a consultation with the proof reader, and the result is a statement to the effect that one or two "pints" of backbone will accomplish the desired object. In this shape the paragraph has been going the rounds, showin that our gifted compositors and proof-reader know how to fill long felt wants and things of that sort.

English consumers complain that leather is found in American sausage. It is doubtful whether the leather is genuine or whether it is merely a ample of republican cheek.

It makes no difference whether the members of the coalition convention come as republicans or as slab-sided democrats—they must submit to vacciation. Only those who are able to show a present able scar are allowed to engage in any branch f politics in Atlanta. This may seem cruel at first glance, but the able coalition delegates will like it when they get used to it.

WITH $100,000 worth of Peruvian company scrip in his breeches pocket, it stands to reason that Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, is innocent of the great transgression. In addition to his other innoence, Blair is a sort of one horse republican.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made to vaccinate elegates to the coalition convention as rapidly as they arrive. They will be well taken care of during onvalescence, and only genuine quills will be used upon them. It is understood that Senator Pendleton is in lined to go in cahoots with the Hon. Jack Kelly,

So far as we know there is no objection to this. Fo Kelly is just as likely to make Mr. Pendleton presi lent as anybody else. SPEAKING of Tammany, it is hardly too much to ay that there is not a thoughtful democrat in the dictation of John Kelly. As the delegates to the coalition convention are be vaccinated promptly upon their arrival, it is

How Gilbert and Sullivan write their comic

How Gilbert and Sullivan write their comic pperas together is described by Mr. Cellier. "The sit down and talk and smoke funumberable cigarsit down and talk and smoke innumberable cigar-ettes together." he says, "while they are getting-their ideas together. Gilbert says to Sullivan: I've got an idea." Sullivan screws his glass into his eye, looks at Gilbert critically for a moment, and says: 'Have you? I really shouldn t have thoughett of you?' 'I want the girl to sing something like this,' continues Gilbert. 'Make it the man,' puts in Sullivan; 'and, by the way, I want you to write something for that chorus—something that they can sing la-te-ta and so on;' and so they talk and joke and smoke cigarettes till the opera is evolved."

If there is one unfortunate man in the state m anxious than all others for the election of General Gartrell to the office of governor, that man mustfurely be Ed Cox, who is in the penitentiary for life for killing Colonel Bob Alston.

Mr. Speer's Last Chance

Mr. Emory Speer, of the ninth, seems to be trying see how radical he can be Dr. Felton used to with the demicrats on all test questions, but Mr. Speer seems to take a pleasure in going with the radicals on all such occasions. Let him make hay while the sun shines. He will hardly have another chance soon, so far as going to congress from the ninth is concerned.

Mr. Stephens Will Pull Through. Augusta Chronicle.

Mr. Stephens's thousands of friends in Georgia will learn with pain of his accident at the capitol. fr. Stephens possesses the pluck of a giant and has already been through enough to kill ten men. We trust he will safely emerge from his accident. Mr. Stephens is leaving now upon the great arm of the people and, politically, never makes a slip.

Hawkinsville Dispatch.

The Bainbridge Democrat truthfully says that "if he so-called 'independent movement' in Georgia vas headed by anybody except disappointed officeseekers it would doubtless take better with the peo-ple. While these howling demagozues held office they were rampant democrats and republicans; but now that the flesh-pots are without their reach, they yell for 'independentism' and 'reform.' The Devil might as well go to preaching reform.

True Penny Wisdom.

The southern people used to be too proud to handle the penny, but now that they are all born free and equal, and have no special privileges on account of race, color or previous condition, it were wise for them to adopt the economical method that common sense and exact honesty seem to sug rne penny would not only be a great convenience, but a great saving in living expenses. Discussing the penny question, the London Standard remarks that "few neople are aware of the variety and excellence of the productions that can be sold for a penny." The value of that despised coin is illustrated by the lessees of the Alexandria Palace, who exhibit multitudinous articles at that price. That which excites perhaps least attention is a penny newspaper. One of the stands has a varied assortment of penny periodical literature of the age, daily, weekly and monthly. The Revised New Testament at one penny is remarkable. The fine arts are represented by penny paints, colored and plain, some mounted in moulded carbon, forming tasteful frames. There are penny packages of things useful, such as soap, pins, seeds, starch, cosmetics, dyes in powder, or liquids, and toys in endless profusion. Fancy stationery, and specialties for the senson, easter and other cards, knives and scissors, and other tools are a penny apiece. At a beautiful floral stand penny button-hole bouquets and bouquet holders are dispensed. For a penny apiece walking sticks, kites, lewelry, jug, microscopes, sweets, sauces, photographs, and a long list of other things crowd the stands. Here in Gaiveston the despised penny is not given even in change. A sum less than five cents is not regarded, and the odd cents always go to the seller, never by any chânce to the buyer. The establishment of a one or two cent store would be an experiment worth trying, and would bring patronage to the merchant, many comforts to the poor, and a lesson of frugality to all.

Douglasville Star, ind.

Mr. Stephens's announcement that he would consent to become a candidate for governor has caused various comments from the press of the state. The announcement has not been received with the enthusiasm that his friends thought it would be. Some of the papers have been severe in their criticisms on him and others have tried to restrict him only to the organized. Mr. Stephens is a political coquette who is toying with the confidence and affections of the people.

Sparta Ishmaelite

The democratic party cannot afford to fall into the rear of the coalition procession to gratify the ambition of any man living. Defeat would be presented to cowardly acquiescence in the coalition programme. Still, we are far from believing that defeat would result, even if Mr. 8 should get the consent of his mind to antagonize his party, in the interest of the coalition. There is not living a man whose candidacy on the coalition platform can make that mongrel party even moderately decent, and the good people of Georgia will so decide in October. The coalitionists cannot capture the democratic party even with so dariny a bait as Mr. Stephens. The indications are that they will make the experiment. They will find that there is a vast difference between capturing a candidate and winning the state. ning the state.

The desultory warfare against Mr Stephens, being waged by a number of Georgia journals, we produce precisely the opposite effect to that tended by the misguided editors. Their attem tended by the misguided editors. Their attempt to suppress or extinguish him are as futile as they are absurd. The comments by the state press on Hon A. H. Stephens's candidacy for gubernatorial honor which we give this me, ming, speak with no uncertain sound. They have been culled from our exchanges and indiscriminately, and, with only one or two exceptions, they state that his election can be guaranteed only by a non-institution by the democratic party in convention assembled. Mr. Stephens very well understands that this means that he is to be a candidate for the democration, and that he must be a candidate for no party outside of democracy. It is all very well to talk about being the governor for the whole people, but there is a difference between being a candidate and being an official. The democracy wants no man as their con didate who is also the candidate of a coalifior whose purpose is to aclive the state into the hands on a stalwart republican administration and corup, our government for the purpose of putting the spoils into their own pockets. The only object so far which has presented itself by the coalition is a fricanize Georgia for the purpose of putting in office men who have falled to obtain it in an honorable channel. THE TRUTH TOLD rue Situation Regarding Small-Pox in Atlanta—The Board of Health Sussains the Accuracy of The Constitution's Reports—What Dr. Baird Says With Reterence to the Disease.

We present below an interview with Dr. Baird, secretary of the board of health, which gives the exact situation in the city, and some truths it is important the public at home and abroad should

"I hereby make statement, over my own name, that THE CONSTITUTION has faithfully reported every case of small-pox that has occurred in the city of Atlanta. It has done more than this, and has published one case that proved to be an entirely different disease, but that it has shown the full compass and spread of the disease, and has published every single case, giving the name and disposition, I assert most positively."

"I will say further," said Dr. Baird, "that there is no city in the United States so thoroughly protected against small-pox to-day as Atlanta. For months we have been vaccinating steadily, until now the great bulk of our people are proof against the disease. There is a considerable number of va-grant negroes and some few white people that we have not reached, but they are being run down and vaccinated at the rate of 2,500 per day."

"How many physicians are vaccinating under

'There are fourteen. Of these seven are at stations in various parts of the city, and there are six others who are going from house to house vac ises. The fourteenth man is Dr. Martin. He goes at once to the scene. As soon as the patient is removed he vaccinates every person, man, woing at the rate of two hundred per day each. I feel confident that at the end of ten days the ease and the vaccination will be thorough. As I said before, there is no city in America that is so

Dr. Baird added: "The excitement over the small-pox outside of Atlahta is entirely disproportionate to the facts. I have never seen anything more exaggerated. We have had since the first case less than sixty new cases. These are confined almost entirely to the lower class of negroes, there having been less than a half dozen whites. In New York, from the first day of January to the first day no excitement at all about it. We have had less than sixty, and yet the impression is created out-side of the city that it is epidemic. The disease is thoroughly confined to one class, and the city is protected against the possibility of an epidemic.'

Another leading physician, while indorsing what had been said by Dr. Baird, added this: "Every citizen of Atlanta is doubtless anxious to end this trouble. The surest way to do that is for each man to see that everybody connected with his household or his premises is vaccinated. Vaccination is a perfectly sure protection. If a person should be vaccinated, and it does not take, he should try it again and again, we a should try it again and again, we a should try it again and again, we are it does not take it gives him no inconvenience beyond the mere scratching of the arm, which is mothing. If it does take it is proof positive that he was not protected before, and he should be willing to endure the annoyance for having found this out.

My advice, therefore, to everyone who has not a fresh sear on the arm is to continue to try the vactorial process. Any until it has taken thoreast and the season of the assassinated officient by the families of the assassinated by the assassinated officient by the families of the assassinated by the assassinated and control of the streets in the colonity several scales of the control of the c

ierday. The week so far has been very quiet, and only ien cases have occurred since Saturday. Vaccination has proceeded in a very lively manner, and the uneasiness over the situation has been decidedly decreased since last week. A free vaccination office was opened yesterday in the fourth ward at the furniture factory on East Harris street. It will be under the charge of Dr. George W. Delbridge. There is plenty of vaccine virus in the city, bota bovine and humanized. The board of health is using about a thousand points daily, besides a considerable amount of humanized virus.

Yesterday a Constitution reporter met Pledger, the colored collector of customs, and had a short talk with him. He said:

"The city council did right to pass the compulsory vaccination law. It should have been passed at an earlier stage of the trouble, and should now be enforced to the letter. All good citizens should and will see to it that the people, white and black, become protected. Vaccination I consider a perfect preventive, and the only thing which can stop the spread of the disease. Small-pox is among the colored people mostly. Let them, therefore, be doubly anxious. You may say that I urge them for their own good to get vaccinated, every one of them, at once."

Mayor English remarked yesterday: "I understand that the question of quarantining against atlanta is being discussed in some places, while in others the power is already being exercised. Whatever the purpose of this is, the effect of it will be the same—Atlanta will be injured and nobody will be benefitted. It all grows out of the false and exaggerated reports that have gone out. THE Constitution has published every case each day, and I state most positively that there have not been any other cases than those mentioned in vour paper. When our sister cities have been visited by yellow fever and such diseases Atlanta has never quarantined. We threw open our gates to Savannah and Memphis and we have never even considered such a thing as quarantining. Atlanta can now see which

SMALL-POX NOTES.
The excitement grows less daily. Marietta declined to quarantine, but passed a compulsory vaccination law.

There were no deaths yesterday. There is plenty of virus in the city now The seventh free vaccination office was established yesterday.

The people in the city have very sensibly learned to distrust the small-pox rumors until they are verified by the papers.

COMPULSORY VACCINATION.

A Few Stories, Showing How It Works.

e morning after the city council passed th compulsory vaccination law Dr. Fox, chairman of the police commissioners, stationed himself at the station house and asked every darkey who assayed to ascend to the recorder's court room, whether he to ascend to the recorder's court room, whether he had been vaccinated. Those who replied in the affirmative and proved their assertion true were permitted to pass up and witness the matinee, while those who answered in the negative were told by the commissioner that they could not again enter the recorder's court room until they were vaccinated. The result of this imperative mandate by the police commissioner is best told in hi-own language. "In less than thirty minutes," said he to a party of friends to whom he was telling the story, "no less than a dozen came back with smilling faces and a bare arm showing the fresh sore. I knew it would work before I begun, for the negroes in Atlanta would rather miss church or a circus than police court."

For a certain official of this city a colored woman has been working for more than a dozen years. She has always been a good honest servant, and her employer has always been kind to her, and therefore neither had any desire to sever the connection. Soon after the small-pox appeared in Atlanta the gentleman told his servant that she must be vaccinated, and in a few days asked her if she had complied with his desire. She replied in the negative, whereupon the gentleman again told her she must submit to the knife and virus. Again, in a few days, he asked her if she had been vaccinated, and was somewhat surprised when the servant said no. "Well," said the gentleman, "you have been cooking for my family ever since the war, and I should dislike to give you up but I can't allow you to remain in my family any longer unless you secure yourself signists small-pox. Now, take your choice, be vaccinated or leave at once."

This caused the servant to cry, but she replied: "Well, if I has to go or be vaccinated, I'll be vaccinated, though I believe it will kill me" To-day that servant is wearing her arm in a sling.

The rumor of yesterday that a negro with small-pox had been taken from one of the entrances of the First Methodist church, has been fully correct-ed by the explicit certificate of Dr. M. O. Martin, that the negro was not in the church nor nearer than seventy-yards of it, and that no fears need be entertained of contagion in that part of the city on account of this negro's arrest.

The rumor that is prevalent to the effect that there has been a case of small-pox taken from over my store is false. Neither has there been any taken from stores adjoining.

The San Brund copper company alleges a loss of $150,000 or more; the Stalmont silver mining company $62,000; the Satemo company $10,000, etc.

Serious Railroad Accident. Serious Railroad Accident.

METAMORA, Ind., May 11.—The mail train on the Whitewater Valley railroad was thrown from the track, last night, and the baggage, express, mail and one passenger car were thrown down a forty foot embankment. The express, mail and baggage employes were all seriously, and about twenty passengers slightly injured. Nobody was killed outright.

Reducing the Force. Springfield, Mass., May 11.—The Boston and Albany railroad company, has given notice that 25 per cent of the force employed in the shops in this city, at Boston, and at Albany, will be discharged next week on account of the dullness in freight transportation.

A Disastrous Fire.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 11—The Keystone rubber works were burned here to-day. Loss $80,000; insurance $53,000. Two hundred operatives are thrown out of employment. The origin of the fire is not known.

The Failure of Beer.

New York, May 11.—The Tribune says: "Reports from New Orleans state that Ferdinand Beer, cotton buyer, has failed, with liabilities reported at $100,000."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 11.—Hon. Luther McComb, one of the leading and most honored citizens of this city, died yesterday after a short illness.

SOME AFTERTHOUGHTS

ONNECTED WITH THE RECENT DUBLIN ASSASSINATIONS.

London, May 11.-Lord Cavendish was uried at Chatsworth to-day. The order of funeral procession was as fellows: The duke of Devonshire, walking alone.

The marquis of Hartington, Lord Edward Cav-Mr. Gladstone, Earl Granvile, the speaker of the house of commons. The members of the cabinet.

Three hundred members of parliament walking four abreast.

There was an immense crowd present, the number being estimated as high as 30,000. Many persons were visibly affected. The coffin was carried by a number of tenants of the duke of Devonshire. After the coffin had been lowered into the grave many flowers were thrown upon it. One of the most comspicuous features of the funeral was an ssemblage of 5,000 tenants of the duke of dish.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE THREATENED.

It is stated that as Right Hon. Michael Morris, lord chief justice of the court of common pleas, and Right Hon. Charles Barrie, fourth elerk of the court of the queen's bench, were walking in Phoenix park on Saturday, a few minutes after the murders were committed, and before, they know of them. mitted and before they knew of them, a rough looking man said to the lord chief justice:

"The chief and the under secretary have been murdered. You are the next man spotted."

Justice Morris believed at the time that the man was a lunatic, but he has since been absent from the court, and it is thought that he has gone to England.

WHO AIMED THE BLOW?

Whoever the murderers were of Lord Frederick and Mr. Burke, they must have been backed by some sort of organization—or the

whoever the murderers were of Lord Frederick and Mr. Burke, they must have been backed by some sort of organization—or the murder could hardly have been committed as it was. Lord Frederick had only arrived in Ireland on Friday night. No one in Dublin could possibly have known that he would be walking in Phoenix park at 70 clock in the evening of the next day after going through with the inaugural ceremonies of his new office. How, then, did the four men who slew him come to be so thoroughly prepared for their work, as they evidently were? They must have been armed to the teeth, and on the lookout for Lord Frederick during the whole day, or they must have had scouts watching his movements by whom they were informed of his presence in the park in time to swoop down upon him and his companion and make an end of both before any sort of alarm could be given. The murders were done in a public state and in bread daylight, and within sight. given. The murders were done in a public place and in broad daylight, and within sight and call of the official residence of one of the victims. These considerations seem to forbid the supposition that the crime can have been perpetrated by isolated and irresponsible per-sons. It seems to have been the determined act of a man who knew that Irish independ-act of a man who knew that Irish independence would be more imperited by the success of a policy of conciliation than by the excesses of a policy of coercion.

The United Ireland, instead of the usual cartoon, has a mourning border, surrounding the words: "In token of abhorrence, and the shame cast on the character of our nation for manliness and hospitailty by the assassination of Lord Frederick Cavendish and undersecretary Burke." The paper has an article brought about by misunderstanding and mis-rule; as a man may be a criminal on one side of the Irish sea and a patriot on the other. If it be said that a fenian is a man who wishes to burn, blow up and murder, I will not even reply to that, although I wishes to burn, blow up and murder, I will not even reply to that, although I know it to be untrue. If, in the hot blood of early manhood, smarting under the cruelties and indignities perpetrated in Ireland, I said: "Appeal to force as the only means of succeeding," therefore, in my gravest thought, in the bitter solitude of the felons cell, a nobler vision appeared—the dream of the enfranchisement and fraternization of the people, and of the conquering of hate by justice. I have suffered by their power, but there is in my heart to-day no sentiment of bitterness towards the English people. The gospel of the land for the people sentiment of bitterness towards the English people. The gospel of the land for the people is a universal gospel. In its triumph is involved the social regeneration of England as clearly as that of Ireland. If you would find the modus-vivendi between the English and the Irish, it is easy. Treat us as equals. Treat us as men. Willingly will I go to Ireland and do whatever I can to further the peaceful doctrines, I have always advocated, but I am confident that nothing I could do or say would strike as effectually as the feeling of horror, which was sent through the feeling of horror, which was sent through Ireland at the slaughter of the innocent and inoffensive Englishmen, under circumstances which lent to the black deed every attribute inoffensive Englishmen, under circumstances which lent to the black deed every attribute of atrocity." The letter concluded as follows:

"How can I protest with effect against the outrages when the most brutal outrages are being committed in the name of the law. Ladies are sent to prison as persons of evil fame. Huts erected by charity are torn down. Little boys are ruthlessly shot down by the constabulary and men of the highest character are still held in jail on suspicion.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

Mr. Trevelyan, the new chief secretary for Ireland, and Lady Spencer have arrived in Dublin. The former was warmly cheered by the populace. Lord Spencer at the last moment decided to remain in Ireland instead of attending the funeral.

The IRISH BILL INTRODUCED.

Special Dispatch to The Constitution.

In the house of commons this evening Sir William Harcourt, the home secretary, introduced a bill for the repression of crime in Ireland. He characterized the prevalence of crime there as a national disgrace. He said the time has arrived for the entire house to unite in taking steps to repress it. The case the time has arrived for the entire house to unite in taking steps to repress it. The case we deplore to-day is not a solitary one. The crime is a plague spot on Ireland, and I believe the Irish people desire its removal. It springs from secret societies and must be extirpated. The mainspring of the crime is the expectation of immunity which is only too well founded. The government has, therefore, concluded that it is necessary in those places where the ordinary law is not observed that special tribunals, consisting of three judges, be appointed by the lord lieutenant to try cases without a jury. The judgment of the court must be unanimous. Appeal can be made to the supreme court, the judgment of the latter to be given by a majority of the judges. The supreme court may diminish but cannot increase the severity of the sentences. Parliament will be ity of the sentences. Parliament will be asked to provide special remuneration for the special judges. The bill gives power to arrest strangers, as the crimes are generally committed by foreign emissaries. The hospitality of England not being for such persons, and the agents of O'Donovan Rossa, and the power to remove foreigners who are considered danger. agents of O'Donovan Rossa, and the power to remove foreigners who are considered dangerous to the peace. The government therefore intend to revive the alien act. The secret societies are to be dealt with summingly, and membership thereof will constitute an offense under this act. The operation of the bill is limited to three years. Sir William Harcourt said the bill placed almost unlimited authority in the hands of the lord lieutement, and concluded by stating that this measure would shortly be followed by one dealing with the arrears of rent.

Special Dispatch of The Constitution. tion, owing to rumors which are current, and to threatening letters which he has received to the effect that he is a marked man.

Time of sale. Thursday, June 'ist 4 P. M. on the premises.

Terms of sale—One-third cash: balance in 3 and 6 months with 8 per cent interest.

Location between Marietta street and the Western and Atlantic Railroad and just beyond Haiman's Plow Factory and separated from it by Victory street, 20 wide. Size 159 feet fronton the W & A R R, 162 feet on Marietta street, 135 feet next to Haiman's and 114 feet on the other side.

Advantages—The best possible transportation facilities by the W & A R R, the Georgia Pacific and Richmond and Danville Railroads, which run by it. The R audd R R shops and Round House are near by, it is close in, with a street car line on one side and several railroads on the other. and there is now ready for use a good side-track for shipping purposes. Besides it is the last and only available or unoccupied manufacturing site of good size between the Exposition grounds and the city. The time is not far distant when such a site as we offer cannot be had for 'love or money,' and whether improved or vacant it will prove a bonanza to the owner in a few years. When all the various railroads now in progress are completed and pour their increased commerce into Atlanta from all the rich sections along their lines and at their terminal and connection with the Alabama coal mines, making fuel cheap at this point, the one and only drawbants will flourish and increase in a ratio never before known in her splendid progress. Then will come prosperity and solid reasons for it, such as were hardly ever experienced in the history of any city. There are a number of embryo manufactories here now and their originators and managers will be wise to avail themselves of this chance to profit by all the advantages incident to the very finest locality.

Come to cur office on the first day of June, the day of sale, at 3:35 p m, and take a free ride to the premises on the Marietta street car and be at the GOODE & SMITH,

THE COTTON MARKET

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, Atlanta, May 11, 1882.

New York-Futures ruled steady at the opening this morning, and during the morning showed a the market relaxed into a dull feeli g and cased off toward the close, leaving quotations within a fraction of vesterday's closing prices: market closed easy for futures. Spots steady; middling 12 5-16c. Net receipts for five days 27.92; bales, against 37,728 bales last year; exports 52,875 bales; last year 61,919 bales; stock 523,307 bales; last year 562,843

Below we give the opening and closing quotations f cotton futures to-day: OFENED. .....12.33@12.35 May .....

Closed easy: sales 54,000 bales.

Liverpool -Futures closed quiet and steady. Spot-- Telands 6%d; Orleans 6 13-16d; sales 15,000 bale of which 8,700 bales were American; receipts 6,900 American 4.900.

The local market is firm but steady. We quote Good middling 11%; middling 11%; low middling 111/ge; strict good ordinary 10%/e; good ordinary 101/4e; ordinary 81/c; stains 8@91/c: tinges 11c.

NEW YORK. May 11-The Post's cotton market brought an advance of 3 100 and subsequently ad at the third call May was bought at 12 32, June 12.42, July 12.56, August 12 70. October 11.71."

From Smith, Edwards & Co.'s Cotton Circular for The prospects of our market have not materially aftered of late, the American crop will, apparently, not vary much from 5,400,000; something will, of course, depend upon the amount of new cotton re ceived in August. The wonderful thing is, that in spite of a decrease of 1,200,000 bales in the crop, the visible supply for the world is only 95,000 bales below last year, while that for England is 161,000 bales spite of a decrease of 1,200,000 bales in the crop, the visible supply for the world is only 95,000 bales more; both English and continental spinners are also believed to hold larger-stocks than last year. The principal cause of this unexpected result is, of course, the extraordinary crop of western Irdia; it now seems probable that Bombay will ship 400,000 bales more than last year, up to the monsoon, and as there was also a considerable increase in the after monsoon shipments of last year. Europe will receive at least half a million bales more East India cotton in the twelve months ending 1st October, than in the previous year.

This large surplus has undoubtedly staved offan extreme scarcity in the autumn. At one time it seemed doubtful whether the trade would go largely upon Surats in place of American, but that doubt is now at an end; epinners are buying and using Surats very freely, the excellence of the crop and the poor style and high price of low American, combine to drive them in that direction, and it is clear that American cotton will be relieved from much of the demand that would otherwise have some upon it. We are, therefore of opinion, that there is no real danger of scarcity this aurumn, not even of American cotton will be relieved from much of the demand that would otherwise have some upon it. We are, therefore of opinion, that there is no real danger of scarcity this aurumn, not even of American cotton will be relieved from much of the demand that would otherwise have some upon it. We are, therefore of opinion, that there is no real danger of scarcity this aurumn, not even of American cotton in the sult man.

As to this, the could offer the crop and the prices in the autumn. We think the present prices in the autumn. We think the present price for August-September delivery of middling uplands, say 6½ to 6½ d, fully discounts all reasonable expectation of improvement.

As to Surfat Cotion, no doubt we shall pass through a film of weakness and very heavy stocks, but it seems doubtful filmuch low made next season.

Taking all things into account, we do not see that any change of importance is to be expected in our market at present. The stock will rapidly increase, and probably exceed 1, 100,000 bales in June, but with cheap money and spinners disposed to keep up their stocks, we do not think helders will show much weakness.

D. E. ARDIS COMMITS SUICIDE IN LOUISVILLE.

oal Disorder Results in a Mental Disarrange.
Which Endain Doath—How the Suicide miled the Walchers and Put an End to His Own Life by a Pistol Shot.

Below is published an article from the Louisville Courier-Journal detailing the suicide of Mr. D. E. Ardis, a farmer who has for sometime been living on the Peachtree road, near Atlanta, but who last week went to Louisville to attend to some matters of business, and expected to return at an early day. Mr. Ardis has a brother residing at 52 McDonough street, Mr. P. L. Ardis, and a telegram having reached him Wednesday announcing the death of the unfortunate man he left immediately for Louisville and will return with the remains, which will be interred at Marietta, the old home of Mr. Ardis. The suicide was about forty years cide of Mr. D. E. Ardis, a farmer who has Mr. Ardis. The suicide was about forty years old and was physically deranged to such an extent that his mind was impaired. An acquaintance of his said yesterday, to a Cox-

"The suicide is a sad and unfortunate affair. In the Courier-Journal's account it is intimated that there is a lady in the case. There is no ground for anything of the sort. Mr. Ardis was forty years old and a bachelor, but

The Tragedy Desc. ibed.

From the Eouisville Courier-Journal, May 10.

One of the strangest suicides that have occurred in this city for some years took place at Rufer's hotel about a quarter to 9 o'clock last evening. On May 4 a stranger came to the hotel and registered in a good, round, commercial hand the name of D. E. Ardis, Atlanta, Ga. The stranger was of medium height, with dark hair, and considerably bald. He was about forty. His voice was low, his demeanor modest and his manners those of a refined and educated man. He was assigned to room No. 14 on the third manners those of a renned and educated man. He was assigned to room No. 14 on the third floor of the hotel, and he kept his apartments for several days. He complained of being sick, and as his behavior was that of an invalid, Colonel Rufer felt some solicitude as to his guest's well being. After considerable arging, Ardis at last consented to have a physician called, and Dr. Berry was summoned. This was Sunday. Ardis ed. This was Sunday. Ardis old the doctor that he had kidney disease

His conversation was, however, perfectly rational, and nothing serious was thought of his condition. A short time after the doctor first saw Ardis he began to show signs of mental disarrangement. He seemed to imagine that he had left Atlanta to escape persecution of some sort, and the indefinable dread that he felt created considerable uneasiness in his mind. He was not a perfectly temperate man in his habits, though he devoted most of his time either to reading and writing, and to a fragmentary sort of conversation with those about the office of the hotel. In one of these conversations he stated that one of the things that gave rise to his melancholy was the fact that various ladies of his acquaintance had made fun of his bald head, and had otherse treated him to a sort of indignity. Mon-y he drank some champagne and began to by signs of seriousmental troubles. In the show signs of serious mental troubles. In the midst of perfectly rational conversations on the most commonplace subjects, he would suddenly break out and say: "There it is; don't you see it? That is what is persecuting me." This tendency to delirium was somewhat diminished by the use of sedatives which the doctor prescribed, but the man's condition continued to grow worse. On Monday evening about 7:30 o'clock the man's condition had become so serious that Dr. Berry telegraphed to Ardis's brother, P. L. Ardis, No. 52 McDonough street, Atlanta. All that night the patient exhibited considerable nervousness and was more or less delirious.

HE SEEMED TO CONTEMPLATE SUICIDE as an end to his troubles, and once during the evening asked one of the bell-boys of the hotel, who was watching with him, to open the window and leave the room so that he uld jump out and break his neck

He also inquired the way to the river, at the same time saying that if this persecution did not cease he would go down and drown himmorning he seemed much better. When Dr. Berry left Ardis, at about 9 o'clock, he was quite bright, though he told the doctor that he must be sure and return in the evening, he must be sure and return in the evening, which the doctor promised to do.

Ardis spent most of yesterday in his room, and occupied his time with reading the Bible and writing a letter, over which he spent considerable time. About 7 o'clock last evening Martin McAllister, one of the hotel waiters, went up to sit with Ardis. He stayed in the room about an hour and a half, and during that time Ardis took a bath put on a clean shirt and changed his clothing. He then sat down and commenced to read his Bible again, scanning it very carefully as though looking for something. It was nearly half-past 8 when he turned to McAllister and asked him to go down and see if the doctor had come. The latter did as he was requested, and, inding that he had not arrived, went to his office. McAllister thinks that he was gone about fifteen aninutes. He found that the doctor was not at home, and returned and told Mr. Ardis so. He replied: "Very well: 1 am much obliged; that is all you can do for me now, Martin." The waiter then came down stairs to the office, and told the clerk that he thought Mr. Ardis ought to have a nurse to the office, and told the clear that he thought Mr. Ardis ought to have a nurse to attend to him during the night; that he believed he was going to commit suicide, he was acting so strangely. A few minutes' conversation ensued, and then the nurse was sent for. McAllister started upstairs to tell the patient that there would be a nurse to attend to him. When he got to the room the door was closed, and on opening it he found Ardis lying on the bed

WELTERING IN HIS BLOOD.

In one hand the corpse held a hand lookingglass while the other grasped a revolver.

Just between the eyebrows was a small, round hole from which the blood was bubbling up, and on the white counterpage, sheets and hole from which the blood was busoning up, and on the white counterpane, sheets and pillows the splattered brains of the dead man made great crimson splotches. It was a ghastly sight, made the more terrible through the blue pistol smoke that hung over the bed. collister closed the door and hurried down airs, and the rumor of the suicide soon read in all directions. When the Courier-urnal scribe reached the hotel everything is undisturbed in the little bed-room where as undisturbed in the little bed-room where tagedy took place. There were many idences that the suicide had been a most liberate one. On the table, beside the bed, ya letter, sealed but unstamped. It was rected to the deceased man's brother at Athata, and on the top of it lay a nickel to pay e postage. Under the inkstand was a slip of

So pangs of nature—sins of will,
Defects of doubt and taints of blood,
That not hing walks with aimless feet,
That not a soul shall be destroyed,
Or cast as rubbish to the void,
When God shall make the pile complete.
On the other side of the paper was sitten:

That mercy show to me.
The side of the paper lay a Bible, ope to the 102d Psalm. Various passages in it were marked, and read: Hear my prayer, Oh, Lord, and let my cry come
